Humorous but poignant western romance
Von Ein Kunde
In 1882 Horseshoe, Texas, Linsey Gordon reads the signs that inform her that she has three months to live because she looked into a mirror during Bleet Haggard's wake. Though her luck may be all bad, the superstitious Linsey decides to do one last good deed before she dies. She wants to find a spouse for her sister Addie. Linsey selects the town's workaholic, its' most eligible bachelor, Dr. Daniel Sharpe, a person who dreads having anything to do with the most superstitious person in all of Texas. Her efforts seem to backfire and places her and Daniel in several predicaments. Still, both of them soon begin to fall in love with each other, but he must convince her that the only real sign is that of love, while she must teach him to relax.
LOVING LINSEY is a humorous western romance with a moral that life is to be lived. The story line is filled with antics that entertain the reader even as the era feels authentic. The good and bad luck charms that prevail would even leave Professor Amos Fortune (Justice League foe) wondering about the future. Like her best seller, WILD CAT CAIT, Rachele Morgan has scribed another jocular tale with a punch.

This book has a superstitious heroine, which is a rare thing. I looked forward to a nice read, and that is what I got from this book. Sweet and easy to read. Things dipped a little however, when the heroine began to do some things I suspected was meant to be cute but made me grit my teeth nonetheless. And the hero didn't make me particularly excited either.

Kurzbeschreibung
The signs have mistakenly told superstitious Linsey Gordon that she has less than three months to live, and she's determined to do one last good deed before she dies. But matchmaking for her timid sister Addie is going to take doing, when the man Linsey has in mind for Addie ends up falling for her! She'll have to stop trusting in signs, and believe in something much stronger than luck: passionate, unpredictable love.

Synopsis
Mistakenly believing that she has only three months to live, superstitious Linsey Gordon decides to play matchmaker for her timid sister Addie and Daniel Sharpe, the town's handsome doctor, only to find herself drawn to the straightlaced physician. Original.
