Fun to read Von Astrid Back Cover: When love takes center stage, even the best of scripts might need a rewrite. Broadway bombshell Marty Chandler is the reigning queen of musical theater. Saddled with a one-woman show, a mediocre script, and a shoestring budget, Marty hires newly divorced novelist Liz Chandler as writer to bring the show to life.

Marty and Liz are soon writing their own personal script, but the budding romance is threatened when Marty begins to wonder just how "ex" Liz's ex-husband really is. Enter Felice Taite, a young, talented off-Broadway actress who is eager to dethrone Marty. As the pressure mounts in Marty's professional and personal lives, Marty walks out of the show. Will the curtain go up for Liz, Marty, and the nameless play? Or will the lights go out on stage and in Marty's heart? _____ I enjoyed this story. It is a bit different from the usual love stories out there. The language is rather sophisticated and the whole theater world is something new as well. The characters are interesting and likeable. I simply had fun reading this book. This is a good read if you're looking for a few hours of escapism with a slightly different twist. Funny enough my book has only 232 pages and not 288 as mentioned by .1 von 1 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. "personalized" romance Von Sandra One thing that Bobbi Marolt does very well is to "personalize" the romance and make it something that could only happen between these two characters. I noticed that in "Between the Lines" too. You will never guess what Liz brings to their first date instead of flowers... A few of Marty's issues are overcome a bit too fast, but it's still an entertaining and good read. I also appreciated the clean POV and the fact that, despite their attraction, the characters don't jump into bed.
