ber den Autor und weitere MitwirkendeAlthough Karina Gioertz has been writing for most of her life, it never quite registered with her as something out of the ordinary or worth pursuing, because it was so closely connected to who she was. It wasn't until she became a stay-at-home mom and finally took the time to write an entire book from beginning to end, that she understood what all of those ideas she had been jotting down all those years were really for. Since then, she has written several books, including Country Girls, Lucky In Love and Blood Bound. While writing and motherhood have become her main focus over the years, she also enjoys many other creative activities such as painting and photography. Most sunny days she can be found in her courtyard working feverishly at painting and refurbishing old furniture that is, of course, only if it wasn't a suitable day to spend at the beach. ;-) Karina resides in sunny Florida with her family and two dogs and can be contacted via Facebook, Twitter or her blog @ www.friedgatortail.wordpress.com
