Mad Love I give it 5-starsVon coco1002If you're already a fan of Janet Elizabeth Henderson then you'll enjoy Mad Love. If you are new to her work then I suggest you start with one of her other books, they are much better, I found Dean and Maddie irrational and unbelievable. I know this is fiction but I don't want to be irritated by the characters I read about.Dean runs a very successful business, age 35 he's probably a millionaire and has loved his best friend's sister for ten years. He wants her and has finally decided to go to any extreme to get her. Seems to me that he took a long time to make up his mind and hope he didn't run his business in a similar fashion. 29 year old Maddie has never held down a job in her life, giving her short span attention to hair-brained schemes. There's no explanation as to how she finances these schemes, support herself, pays the rent etc? Seems a match made in Hell, but as this is fiction don't take it too seriously, just enjoy it, I did.

Kurzbeschreibung Madeline Lewis wants to be the next big thing in something - anything. She is tired of failure, although to be fair she does cause most of it, but now she wants to be a success. And the only thing standing between her and world domination is Dean Montgomery, her childhood friend. Dean has been in Maddie's life so long that he's taken on the attributes of wallpaper. That's something Dean plans to change and fast. He'd tired cleaning up Maddie's messes, he's tired of being the sensible one and he's tired of being invisible. Maddie might be confused about what she wants out of life, but Dean knows what he wants - Madeline Lewis. She won't know what hit her.
