RepetitiveVon Kindle JunkieCarol Grace has written better stories. Here the text gets a bit redundant as again and again the reader is privy to both characters' thoughts of how they do not want to get into a relationship - despite a mutual attraction - as it would not work anyway. The last sentence in the synopsis "Now if only he could keep her there long enough to prove they were made-to-order..." is not true. For most of the story we read Max's thoughts that any kind of relationship cannot work due to his job and based on his past bad experience.

Kurzbeschreibung Miranda Morrison has handled her share of irate customers at the Vermont mail-order company, but Maxwell Randolph Carter with his southern accent and his tough-guy attitude topped them all. Was it her fault the wealthy weatherman was stuck at his remote mountain top station in three feet of snow without the boots he'd ordered? Still, the customer was always right... So off she went in the snow mobile to deliver those damned boots. Max was shocked to see the lovely but half-frozen Miranda arrive at his outpost with the merchandise. It wasn't every day that a beautiful delivery woman drops by the observatory. He predicted fog which meant she had to stay overnight, but he never predicted that lightning would strike him when he saw her. Now if only he could keep her there long enough to prove they were made-to-order...
