Ive been captivated from the first page.Even as I loved this story, I am a bit sad that I have to wait for Part 2, there are so many unanswered questions. I will give this book 4 stars, out of the reason that's a cliffhanger and I have to wait for part 2.

Kurzbeschreibung Rhee's heads to the Caribbean, determined to learn how to scuba dive. What's the fastest way to grow up after losing both parents within a short time, parents who've sheltered and over-protected you your whole life? You grow up fast by facing your fears, the ocean topping the list, at least she thought the ocean was her worst fear, before she met Paul, her new scuba instructor. Paul has traveled the world, running from his past, a past he's not proud of and refuses to talk about. When he reaches the small, Caribbean island on the dive bum circuit, he's found home. He buys one of the local dive shops and finds Solace running a top-notch scuba operation, diving by day, and by night, allowing the never-ending supply of hovering women to seduce him. Rhee isn't Paul's type, so why does she drive him so crazy, pressing his already foul temper to its limits? She's the biggest baby he's ever known, scared of her own shadow, and no one can really be that good at heart. He has too much fun goading her to drop the act and stop trying to make everyone believe she's a saint, but each time he breaks down a piece of that reserved facade of hers, he's amazed at how tough she really is. The thing Paul doesn't count on is the way Rhee is breaking him down as well.
