Von Ros Baxter : White Christmas (novella) (Novella) (New Earth) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised White Christmas (novella) (Novella) (New Earth):

KundenrezensionenHilfreichste Kundenrezensionen0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. White ChristmasVon Bigi StotzkaWhat an interesting idea to ward off the Enemy, this story was very short but sweet, two lovers lose each other. She misunderstand why he left her. Well, I liked the story.

KurzbeschreibungWhat if your only chance at survival was to seduce the man who broke your heart? Seventeen years after the Apocalypse, Admiral-class Explorer Tabysa is caught up in a firefight and shot down over Tyver, where ice vampires hunt human warmth. Seeking shelter in an ice cave, she is instructed to stay put and await rescue. But after another ship crash-lands, and the Hunter Gatherers stalk its wounded pilot, Tabi breaks protocol. When it turns out the survivor is the man who stole her heart then skipped out on her ten years before, it seems to Tabi that no good deed goes unpunished, and things cant get any worse. But shes so wrong. As the Hunters pick up the escalating heat signature of the former lovers, Tabi has to tell Asha that there is only one way to repel the creatures stalking them. And it involves picking up where they left off ten years before.Praise for WHITE CHRISTMAS (NOVELLA):'Ros Baxter is an excellent writer in that she can develop a whole other world involving ice, space ships and aliens and make it believable in so few pages.' Sam Still Readingber den Autor und weitere MitwirkendeRos Baxter has been writing since she was eight and penned a whimsical series of short stories about a race of tiny people who lived on a rainbow. While a few things intervened - a career in social policy, four children - Ros started writing again in earnest three years ago. In that time, Ros secured a two-book deal with Harper Collins Australia, published Sister Pact (a romantic comedy co-written with her sister Ali), been a contributing author to the e-anthology URL Love, and finaled in the STALI competition. Ros writes transporting stories about love, family, friendship and women in all their glorious strength and contrariness. She loves to turn up the sizzle, throwing heroes and heroines into screwy and sometimes fantastical situations and watching how they take the heat. Ros lives in Brisbane's North with her husband Blair, four noisy children under eight, a neurotic dog and nine billion germs.
